

CoreWeave

Record $40B+ Bookings; FY26 Revenue Guide Reaffirmed, Though Q2 Guide Below

Heading into CoreWeave's Q1 earnings report, we highlighted our positive view on top-line trends, and flagged that investor focus would center on backlog/diversification, financing/CapEx pacing, and the operating margin ramp toward low-double-digits by Q4. The quarter broadly validates each of these, while Q2 revenue guidance below Street expectations and higher CapEx due to component price increases preserve our view that CoreWeave will provide a lumpy, volatile ride. Key Takeaways: 1) FY26 Reaffirmed; FY26 Exit ARR Floor Raised; Q2 Revenue Below Consensus Preserves Lumpy-Ride Thesis. Q1 revenue of $2.08B beats Street consensus by ~6% with PF op income in-line with guidance. FY26 revenue ($12-13B) and PF op income ($900M-$1.1B) guidance are reaffirmed, while the 2026 exit ARR floor is raised by $1B to an updated range of $18-19B. However, Q2 revenue guidance of $2.525B (midpoint) lands ~7% below consensus of $2.71B, while FY26 CapEx is raised to $31B (from $30B) due to component pricing (a pass through cost which we believe will not have a material impact on the margin profile of previously-booked business). 2) Record Bookings Drive Backlog Higher; Customer Diversification Accelerates. Revenue backlog of $99.4B grows ~$32.6B sequentially (+49%) on $40B+ of new Q1 commitments, the strongest bookings quarter in CoreWeave's history. The company now serves 9 of the top 10 AI model providers (with the addition of Anthropic) and has 10 customers committed to $1B+ in spend. Notably, non-investment-grade AI natives + Foundation Labs now represent <30% of backlog, with the financial services vertical (Jane Street+$6B in Q1, Hudson River Trading newly added) approaching $10B in backlog. Active power surpasses 1GW and CoreWeave articulates a long-term ambition to reach 8GW by 2030. 3) Investment-Grade Financing Milestone Helps to Counteract Capital Markets Overhang. CoreWeave closes its DDTL 4.0 facility ($8.5B) at an implied <6% cost, the first-ever investment-grade-rated HPC-backed financing, and yesterday priced DDTL 5.0, the first publicly-syndicated DDTL, at 50bps inside marketing range. Combined with $20B+ in debt and equity secured YTD, Nvidia's $2B closing, Jane Street's $1B strategic equity, and S&P's outlook upgrade from stable to positive, the financing concern that dominated the post-Q4 debate seems to have materially eased. Net-net, there could be a wide range of outcomes for CoreWeave. For this reason, we expect the stock to provide a lumpy, volatile ride, requiring a risk tolerance that may not exist for most investors. If we end up with heightened economic volatility, CRWV shares would probably suffer disproportionately due to risk-off positioning. Neutral rating; PT to $105.

Summary Investment Thesis and Valuation

Investment Thesis

CoreWeave offers software and cloud services, including Infrastructure, Managed Software, and Application Software Services, needed to manage complex AI infrastructure at scale under its CoreWeave Cloud platform, launched in 2020. The CoreWeave Cloud Platform, hosted in its distributed network of active, purpose-built data centers, supports the development and use of AI models and the delivery of next-generation AI applications across AI training and inferencing stages. We see the willingness of some of the most innovative AI customers in existence today, including OpenAI, Microsoft, NVIDIA, Cohere, and Mistral, to engage with CoreWeave as providing validation of the company's differentiated market positioning, driven by its ability to quickly stand up large AI clusters and support high levels of performance. CoreWeave supports some of the most ambitious, compute-intensive projects of its customers, which in turn require it to maintain a sophisticated financing strategy and material capital expenditures to execute on large customer contracts, with the company having pioneered GPU infrastructure-backed lending. We rate CoreWeave Neutral.

Valuation

Our Dec-26 PT of $105 is based on a ~42x EV/CY27E PF EBIT.

Investment Thesis, Valuation and Risks

CoreWeave (Neutral; Price Target: $105.00)

Investment Thesis

CoreWeave offers software and cloud services, including Infrastructure, Managed Software, and Application Software Services, needed to manage complex AI infrastructure at scale under its CoreWeave Cloud platform, launched in 2020. The CoreWeave Cloud Platform, hosted in its distributed network of active, purpose-built data centers, supports the development and use of AI models and the delivery of next-generation AI applications across AI training and inferencing stages. We see the willingness of some of the most innovative AI customers in existence today, including OpenAI, Microsoft, NVIDIA, Cohere, and Mistral, to engage with CoreWeave as providing validation of the company's differentiated market positioning, driven by its ability to quickly stand up large AI clusters and support high levels of performance. CoreWeave supports some of the most ambitious, compute-intensive projects of its customers, which in turn require it to maintain a sophisticated financing strategy and material capital expenditures to execute on large customer contracts, with the company having pioneered GPU infrastructure-backed lending. We believe that the broader market opportunity for AI and its potential impact on the global economy remains in very early days, and we view CoreWeave as a noteworthy player in the evolution of AI, with the company's broad suite of offerings under the CoreWeave Cloud Platform positioning it well to see a steady and growing share of AI workloads over time. While our sense is that much of the AI activity in the cloud today has largely been related to training workloads, we see CoreWeave as well positioned to capture incremental market share as adoption of production workloads accelerates, thus creating an acceleration of inference workloads with varying levels of complexity. We rate CoreWeave Neutral.

Valuation

Our Dec-26 PT of $105 is based on a ~42x EV/CY27E PF EBIT, which is derived from our CY27 PF EBIT estimate of $2.5B for CoreWeave, and we are using our Q4:26 net-debt balance to calculate our EV. The updated PT is a result of a revised forecast and a shift in peer group multiples. Our EV/CY27E PF EBIT multiple for CoreWeave is at a premium to its primary comp set of AI hardware / software infrastructure providers (cloud service, GPU, foundational model, and modern networking providers). The primary comparable set of industry peers trade at an average of ~27x EV/ CY27 PF EBIT. We believe the premium multiple is warranted given CoreWeave's elevated growth rate, large AI-related market opportunities, and solution differentiation, partially offset by high debt loads required to finance heavy CapEx outlays for the foreseeable future, and high execution risk.

Risks to Rating and Price Target

Upside Risks

Ongoing Elevated AI Data Center Spend. CoreWeave has been a consistent beneficiary of the massive build-out of AI data center capacity, including winning business from OpenAI, Microsoft, Mistral, Google, and others. Some of these transactions have been multi-billion in scale. Should CoreWeave continue to receive major slugs of these AI data center deals, the company could see a rise in its revenue backlog and subsequent benefit to revenue growth and create an upward bias to revenue forecasts.

Easing of Supply Bottlenecks. Currently, there exist multiple vectors of supply constraints for the inputs required to stand up leading-edge AI data center facilities. These constraints have led to extended timelines to build out the data centers to serve demand for AI compute. Should there be a meaningful improvement in the supply chain for these inputs, then CoreWeave could see a reduction in execution risk and potentially accelerated timelines for build-outs, which could have a positive impact on near-medium term revenue growth.

Further Development of Software Layer. CoreWeave is actively expanding its proprietary software layer that provides its customers with developer and engineering tools to help manage AI and other software solutions. This strategy is being pursued through a combination of organic development as well as acquisitions. Should CoreWeave continue to successfully develop its software layer and gain traction with customers, it could generate incremental revenue opportunities as well as improve the stickiness of its platform.

Downside Risks

High Existing Customer Concentration. CoreWeave generates a substantial portion of its revenue from a limited number of customers, and any reduction or loss in spend from one or a few of its top customers could negatively impact the company's performance. For example, CoreWeave generates a majority of its revenue from a very small subset of customers, while nearly all of its y/y revenue growth has been attributed to expansion with its existing customer base.

Reliance on Limited Suppliers. CoreWeave relies on a limited number of suppliers for significant components of its equipment, and thus any disruption in the availability of these components or existing supplier relationships could hinder the company's ability to expand and/or increase the capacity of its infrastructure. For example, all of the company's GPUs were provided by NVIDIA in 2024 and only three suppliers accounted for a substantial majority of CoreWeave's total purchases.

CapEx & Related Debt Requirements. CoreWeave's operations require substantial capital expenditures and will continue to require additional capital to fund its business and execute on customer contracts, and therefore an inability to raise such capital or to reduce the company's total cost of capital could have a negative impact on the company's revenue growth and free cash flow. If the company were to raise additional funds through equity or convertible debt issuances, this may lead to dilution of existing stockholders as well.

Macroeconomic Gyration. The macroeconomic environment has been volatile, and any persistent macroeconomic headwinds, including relating to potential trade escalations, tariffs, and other geopolitical tensions, could prompt buyers to more carefully consider IT purchases or delay purchasing altogether, which could adversely affect shares. CoreWeave may be particularly impacted by macroeconomic headwinds as it sells a premium offering requiring a substantial investment from its customers, while shifts in monetary and fiscal policy could also create volatility to the company's anticipated debt financing terms.

NR is Not Rated. In this case, J.P. Morgan has removed the rating and, if applicable, the price target, for this stock because of either a lack of a sufficient fundamental basis or for legal, regulatory or policy reasons. The previous rating and, if applicable, the price target, no longer should be relied upon. An NR designation is not a recommendation or a rating. Some stocks under coverage have a rating but no price target; in these cases, we expect the stock will outperform/perform in line/underperform the average total return of the stocks in the Research Analyst's, or the Research Analyst's team's, coverage universe of the relevant duration of the region. In our Asia (ex-Australia and ex-India) and U.K. small- and mid-cap Equity Research, each stock's expected total return is compared to the expected total return of a benchmark country market index, not to those Research Analysts' coverage universe. If it does not appear in the Important Disclosures section of this report, the certifying Research Analyst's coverage universe can be found on J.P. Morgan's Research website, <https://www.jpmorganmarkets.com>.
